Introduction

This document list the components that were audited to prepare a risk analysis of the first party and third party source code of OpenHarmony-3.0-LTS. The audit has been done and this intermediate report has been prepared so that the team could take actions on issues, if any, much before the SBOMs are ready. By issues, we mean any findings that may need further action from either the Eclipse Oniro team, or the OpenHarmony team or a third party community.

1. First party components that have issues

1.1. Action - Please file issues in gitee.

1.1.6. device hisilicon hi3516dv300@OpenHarmony-v3.0-LTS - consider moving precompiled binaries to a separate package to make IP checks easier.

It is mentioned in the README file that: - The hi3516dv300\sdk_linux\mpp\bin directory stores the HiSilicon-developed libraries, which comply with the end-user license agreement (EULA). This directory contains a license file. - The hi3516dv300\sdk_linux\open_source\linux directory stores the HiSilicon-developed code, which complies with the HiSilicon (Shanghai) copyright statement based on GPL. You can see the following license and copyright information at the beginning of the license file stored in this directory:

However, there is no EULA in the mentioned location. The EULA was found in the location, 'device_hisilicon_hi3516dv300@OpenHarmony-v3.0-LTS/sdk_linux/open_source/bin/LICENSE' where we were supposed to find files licensed under GPL as per the second statement above. We would like to have clarity on the applicable EULA and it's location in the source code.

As per the EULA, the rights are to internally use and copy the binaries to set up internal development environment with development boards integrating Hisilicon chips, solely for the purpose of designing, developing or testing your applications. There is no grant of redistribution rights.

1.2. Action - Request to talk to lawyers. It would be great if we can have meeting arranged between Alberto, Carlo, Rahul and the legal team of Hisilicon to discuss.

In this section, we have listed components that contains or are licensed under an end user license agreement from Hisilicon. We would like to clarify about Eclipse Oniro's rights to redistribute the software because we have not found statements regarding distribution in the license texts. e.g. The following is a paragraph found in all the variants of the Hisilicon end user license agreement that is not very clear for us:

No right is granted to YOU under this Agreement to manufacture, have manufactured, or sell, supply or distribute any products which have taken into use or which embody any of the SOFTWARE or any of the intellectual property rights embodied therein.

1.2.1. device hisilicon drivers@OpenHarmony-v3.0-LTS

There are files in the folder, 'device_hisilicon_drivers@OpenHarmony-v3.0-LTS/wifi/driver' that are licensed under the GPL v2.0 or later version. The 'BUILD.gn' file, and in general, the component is licensed under Apache v2.0 license. Apache-2.0 and GPL-2.0 are incompatible. Since we have a driver subject to GPL v2.0 or later and a kernel released under Apache-2.0, we have an incompatibility. Please contact the legal department of Hisilicon and request them to release the driver under a dual license GPL v2.0 or later and Apache-2.0.

As per a sentence in 'device_hisilicon_drivers@OpenHarmony-v3.0-LTS/LICENSE' file, the firmware and libs subdirectories are licensed under End User License Agreement that is provided in the same file. As per the rights mentioned in the EULA, rights to design and develop applications for use in conjunction with Hisilicon chip is explicit. However, right to distribute is not explicitly mentioned.

5. First party components with binaries in the source tree

The source trees of the first party components were checked for the presence of binaries. The listed components in this section are those with binaries in the source tree. The extensions searched for were '.o', '.so', '.a', '.hap' etc. Most of the binaries in the first party components could be licensed under Apache Software License 2.0 or the EULA from Hisilicon. We have tried to document that wherever we were clear on the relation. We have tried to find out if corresponding sources of the binaries are also in the source tree. However, we have mentioned all the cases that we have come across, despite some being obvious that a license applies to the binaries. The following list may not be an exhaustive. However, we will keep this updated.

1. aafwk_standard@OpenHarmony-v3.0-LTS

Binaries were found at 'aafwk_standard@OpenHarmony-v3.0-LTS/test/resource/tools/aa'. The license information found in the file, 'aafwk_standard@OpenHarmony-v3.0-LTS/test/resource/tools/ohos_test.xml' is Apache-2.0 license copyrighted by Huawei Device Co., Ltd.

2. ace_ace_engine@OpenHarmony-v3.0-LTS

Binaries found in the location, 'ace_ace_engine@OpenHarmony-v3.0-LTS/frameworks/base/resource/binary/mac'.

3. ai_engine@OpenHarmony-v3.0-Beta1

Binaries found in the location, 'ai_engine@OpenHarmony-v3.0-Beta1/services/common/platform/os_wrapper/feature/libs/hispanic_taurus/libaudio_features.a'

3. appexecfwk_standard@OpenHarmony-v3.0-LTS/test/resource/bundlemgrsrt
4. appexecfwk_standard@OpenHarmony-v3.0-LTS/test/resource/mstbundlemgrservice
5. appexecfwk_standard@OpenHarmony-v3.0-LTS/test/resource/tools

The license of the files could be Apache Software License 2.0, as the license is mentioned in the ohos_test.xml files in the respective folders. However, we have not found sources that could be mapped to the binaries.

5. applications_hap@OpenHarmony-v3.0-LTS

The component source code tree contains predominantly, '.hap' files. The hap files contains files with the extension, '.bin', minified javascripts and some images. We have found the following files with the '.bin' extension. Javascript files with the same names has been found in the folders as well.
